

Our dance is organized entirely by volunteers who want to be sure we have a local dance. Volunteers schedule bands and callers, handle publicity, and cover all other aspects of making our dance happen each month. We pay the Grange, and the musicians and callers each night (No one gets rich. Some nights they barely make gas money, if the crowd is small).

A Vibrant Dancing Tradition

Contradancing is a longtime New England tradition, alive and vibrant today with old and new musicians, dancers, and dances.

The Farmington dance continues this tradition, with 10 dances each year at the Farmington Grange. We love the atmosphere at the Grange Hall, and enjoy being able to continue the tradition and joy that dancers have brought to Maine Grange and dance halls over many years.

Most of the bands who play at our dances have local roots, and we draw our callers from the central, western and northern Maine areas.

Become a Supporting Sustainer

Supporting Sustainers are people who wish to support the Farmington dance financially in a significant and predictable way. Supporting Sustainers contribute $100 per year. For that year, the Supporter is able to attend all our Farmington dances without paying at the door.

A small portion of the $100 is saved for emergency dance expenses. The remainder is divided into twelve equal portions and goes into the take at the door for each dance, whether or not that supporter actually attends all the dances. In this way we have a base of predictable income to help toward expenses.
